SUMMARY OF THE REASONS FOR DECISION:

The DVD entitled D-Tox is classified as:
Objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 16 years. This classification is based on the manner in which the publication treats matters of violence.

The DVD contains a feature previously classified in video format by the Office of Film and Literature Classification. The video recording was classified Objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 16 years with the descriptive note "Contains violence and offensive language". This classification was registered on 16 May 2002.

The DVD contains the feature and a number of additional components. The feature, starring Sylvester Stallone, involves an FBI agent sent to an isolated detoxification unit after the murder of his girlfriend by a serial killer.

Additional material on the DVD includes a trailer for the feature and deleted scenes. The additional material does not result in an alteration to the original classification given to the video recording.
